

PROFESSIONAL LEARNING

Eye to Eye educators know and understand their neurodiverse learners.

HOW IT WORKS

At Eye to Eye, we believe all students, with particular attention given to those who are neurodiverse, deserve to be owners of their learnings and feel seen, heard, and valued, within their learning community.

We believe the educators with them should be supported in shaping their mindsets, knowledge, and practices to make this a reality.

That's why we designed our professional learning program to meet educators where they are to nudge their mindsets and deepen their practices via a series of workshops and collaboration with school and district leaders.

WHO IS THIS FOR?

This is designed primarily for middle school and high school general educators who lead inclusive classrooms. We encourage special educator colleagues to join to deepen communication and collaboration among teams.

OUR DESIGN

60-90 minute virtual or in-person workshops that are grouped into modules using the following design approaches:

- Competency-based
- Synchronous and asynchronous for applied learning opportunities
- Draws on Understanding by Design® and Universal Design for Learning frameworks in the design and experience

OUR IMPACT

Our program has impacted over 10,000 students to date.

- 84% believe their learning with Eye to Eye will help to shift their practice
- 83% feel they better understand neurodiversity

“This time gave us the ability to be heard and openly collaborate across campuses.”
